

High Performance Tennis Camps

David Brown

Where are they now: How former SHP players utilized the lessons they learned to further their tennis and their future careers.

David Brown began his tennis career at a ripe young age. During his pre-teen years he experienced his first Seminole High Performance Tennis Camp and became highly involved in the program for several years to come. David grew his game via the instruction of the coaches at SHP and then had the pleasure of passing along the knowledge he learned to the future generations of tennis when he himself became an SHP coach. After a stellar high school career, David elected to play Division 3 tennis for Gustavus Adolphus College. He experienced 4 excellent playing years there and then went on to accept an assistant coaching position at the University of Minnesota. After coaching for 1 year, David made a transition into the business world by utilizing his college tennis and coaching experience to secure a position at Robert Half Recruiting, one of the largest recruiting firms in the country. David is currently living in Minneapolis, Minnesota.
